About Me:

Vihar Revankar is a mechanical engineer who is a self-taught, self-motivated Web Developer. He is hardworking though smart working person delivering what's been asked or what's he's been capable of within the given time frame with some multi-tasking. He is passionate to learn and helps himself grow with the tech and add value to the working environment.

His work is reflected upon the projects he did complete.

As to pass time and stay healthy, he indulges himself in activities such as playing football and cricket or an evening walk along the serene beach.

He also likes to read books and drink lots of black coffee.
